WITHDRAWS NAME.

As Candidate on the Prohibition State Ticket.

A telegram was received at the secretary of state's office this morning from W. F. Scott of Brandon, in which he stated to the secretary of state that he refused to allow the use of his name on the prohibition ticket. At an early hour this morning it was expected that the following candidates of the Republican ticket would act similarly: Benjamin Gates, Harry A. Black and Mason S. Stone.

The secretary of state has also taken on the matter up with Porter H. Dale in Washington relative to whether he wants to leave his name on the ballot. Those who have declined, have taken advantage of the new laws governing their consent to run on a ticket so that now the prohibition state committee will have to name some other men to fill the vacancies in their ticket, all of them being blank excepting the candidate for governor, in which they named W. B. Mayo of the Democratic party.

PEOPLE OF INDIA ENTHUSED

By Pres. Wilson's Statement of War Aims.

New York, Oct. 5.—Extracts from President Wilson's speeches are being quoted by villagers in the remotest parts of India, where loyalty to the allies is declared to have been fostered very largely by America's entrance into the war, according to a report submitted to the joint centenary committee of the Methodist Episcopal church by Rev. Benson Baker, superintendent of the missions in Meerut district.

In a recent journey through an isolated part of the country Mr. Baker discovered that people in farthest villages are talking of the United States and President Wilson. Quotations from the president's statements have spread almost entirely by word of mouth, only an infinitesimal proportion of the people being able to read.

"In the minds of the people of India, America stands out as a great ideal nation," Mr. Baker reported. "Her entrance into the war convinced that the cause was righteous. As soon as the villagers find out that ours is the American mission, they begin eagerly to ask questions about the great country across the seas. Somehow these people have heard extracts of what President Wilson has said, and it has gripped their hearts as nothing else has done since the war began."

FOUND BEDDING IN PASTURE.

Brattleboro People Unable to Account For It.

Brattleboro, Oct. 5.—While getting up the cows yesterday Mrs. B. S. McDonald found in the pasture under a tree out of sight of the highway six bed quilts, two blankets, a pillow and a lap robe, and she recalled the fact that a few days ago Private Otto Longfield of Co. C, 43d infantry, three days after the expiration of his furlough from Camp Devens, called at the McDonald home in the rain at night clad only in his thin underwear. He said he had been held a prisoner three days in a barn by two strangers who robbed him of his uniform. There was nothing about the bedding to identify it, and it is being held at the McDonald house. It was soaked through and apparently had been on the ground several days. Private Longfield's robbery story was not generally credited, but whether he occupied the bed in the pasture or where the articles came from are not known.
